VOL. VIII. GLENDALE (LOS ANGELES POSTOFFICE), LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CAL., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1912 No. 28

CITY TRUSTEES

A Dull Session—What Constitutes a Legal Newspaper?

All present. Demands were read and referred. Report was read from tax collector showing receipts for week to have been $648.50. A recess was taken for 15 minutes to consider in committee of the whole, the matter of bids for city printing for the ensuing year.

Mr. F. L. Muhleman addressed the board in support of the contention that the NEWS is the only legally established newspaper in the city of Glendale, the other paper not having been "printed and published" in the city for one year, as required by law. Mr. Muhleman made the point that "printing" is an essential part of the statute and quoted authorities to sustain this view. The facts in the present case being that the Jewel City Press has not been printed in the city of Glendale for one year past, being in fact printed in Los Angeles during several months of that time. Mr. Frederick Baker presented the cause of the Press, claiming that the words "printing" and "publishing" are synonymous.

After some discussion, a compromise was arrived at by which it was agreed that the Jewel City Press should go into court and if possible have its legal standing established, a motion to that effect prevailing on the advice of City Attorney Evans.

Demands were read and referred The matter of improvement of Central avenue was taken up and proceedings for same were again started by the passing of resolution of intention.

An ordinance providing for the opening of Doran street eastward from Louise street to Glendale avenue was read first time and laid over.

The manager of the electric light plant stated that it was found necessary to have some one on duty to answer "trouble" calls during the evening. He was authorized to make necessary arrangements. He also spoke of the fact that certain residents on the west side desired a better lighting system than is planned for in their neighborhood. He was advised to go ahead as planned, changes to be considered later.

The board agreed to inspect Verdugo road at 3 p. m. Saturday. The street superintendent was instructed to get neecssary information and report to the board the probable cost of repairing Brand boulevard north of Broadway. Trustee Coker called attention to the ends of the railroad track on Broadway at Brand boulevard, as forming an obstruction in the street. The city attorney was instructed to serve notice on the railroad company to fix tracks level with grade.

A motion passed to add another man to the police force about Nov. 15.

HIGH CLASS CONCERTS.

A brilliant and important series of events has been secured to Glendale by the United efforts of the Tuesday Afternoon Club and the Glendale Union High School. It is the standard course of college extension programs, five in number, by the selected faculty members of the Los Angeles Musical College. The college faculty of forty-eight specialists embraces much of the finest skill of the Western coast. As every member of every program group is a concert or dramatic artist who is at the same time a teacher, the educational value of their program will be readily inferred.

A particular charm attaches to the first program in the public appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Girard, who will sing in Glendale together for the first time since the arrival of their little daughter. Their work together will consist of solos and duets from the operatic roles in which both were stars before and after their marriage.

The series has been arranged with two major purposes in view; to secure a permanent club to Glendale, and to enlarge the scope of the high school mark in musical appreciation. The fine spirit of co-operation shown by school and club is awakening enthusiasm on every hand, and the probability is that the series will be sold out well before the first event takes place.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

Some of the Questions to be Voted On

At the polls next Tuesday, voters will decide the following questions:

1. Shall wholesale and retail liquor dealers' licenses be granted in this precinct?

2. Shall winery keepers licenses be granted in this precinct.

3. Shall hotel and restaurant liquor dealers' licenses be granted in this precinct?

4. Shall licenses for public billiard rooms be granted in this precinct?

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION TO BE VOTED ON NOV. 5.

For the benefit of NEWS readers we condense from the statement issued by the secretary of state, as follows:

Assembly constitutional amendment No. 3: To provide free school books, state board of education shall provide, compile or adopt a uniform series of text books for the elementary schools to be furnished and distributed free of cost to all children attending these schools. The books to be in use not less than four years. The arguments in favor suggest themselves. The objections are summed up in the objection to a general tax for this purpose. There is a provision in the present law for providing books for pupils unable to purchase them, therefore it is argued that the tax on all property owners, instead of upon parents, is inequitable.

AMENDMENT NO. 2.

Irrigation District Bonds.

This is a measure to put irrigation bonds on a par with other state, county and municipal securities. There seems to be no objection or opposition.

Referendum Opposing Creation of Registrar of Voters.

The object of the referendum is to require a resubmission to the voters of the measure which creates the office of Registrar of Voters, the alternative being a proposition to allow the county clerk extra help for the extra service of registration, in favor of leaving the statute as it is (creating the office) is that in Alameda county it is claimed that the county clerk having the appointment of the extra force, uses this means to create a powerful political machine.

Against this it is claimed that the bill was aimed at the county clerk of Alameda county. The bill provides various compensations for the office in different counties: in Alameda county the registrar is to receive $2000 per year, while in no other county is the salary higher than $2400. This seems to indicate the advisability of voting "Yes" on the referendum. Similar to this is the next measure on the ballot to provide salary for registrar, while the next measure on the ballot relates to another new officer, sealer of weights and measures, subject to similar objections.

Consolidated City and County Government Initiative Measure.

This has been pretty thoroughly discussed. It does not seem to us to be such a bad measure as has been represented by some of its opponents. But as it proposes to give more political power if used as contemplated, to San Francisco and Los Angeles, it is probable that the interests of smaller cities will be better conserved by voting dgainst it.

Race Commission and Horse Racing Initiative Measure.

This is a measure to provide a racing commission that shall have power "to grant licenses for a limited period for horse racing" and betting. It is claimed for the measure that as a result of stopping horse racing, horses have deteriorated. Against the measure is alleged the evil influences of the race track however regulated.

Home Rule Taxation Initiative Measure.

This is proposed to give to cities and counties the power to levy and collect taxes as they please regardless of State laws. It is known to some as a "single tax" measure, although it does not necessarily mean that. It is claimed for the measure that it will remedy many irregularities of the present system, that the system by which cities and counties raise their revenue does not concern and should not be regulated by the state. Against the measure it is alleged that to be a success it should effect a complete separation of state and local taxes, which it does not do; that a deficiency tax must be levied by the state for 1913 on account of the adoption of Amendment No. 1 and that complications will result if this proposed law is adopted. The latter argument seems sound in view of the fact that every one of the counties of the state may have a system of taxation differing from all the others.

FATAL ACCIDENT ON LOS FELIZ GRADE.

Mrs. Daugherty, wife of Dr. J. F. Daugherty of Central avenue, Glendale, was instantly killed Wednesday night when the automobile in which she and Dr. Daugherty were riding collided on the unlighted roadway with a car driven by Earl Bothwell of Los Angeles and occupied by another young man and two young women. Mrs. Daugherty's neck was broken, and she died instantly. Dr. Daugherty was seriously hurt and was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium. The occupants of the other car were considerably injured, but not seriously.

Miss Clarice Dominy of Seventh street entertained friends at her home during the past week.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

New Paper Launched—Sports—Elections, Etc.

G. H. S. 42—Burbank 26.

Glendale acquired another decoration Tuesday afternoon when the basketball team added Burbank's scalp to the war belt. After the first few minutes of play when Burbank took the lead several times, the home five outplayed their opponents in all departments of the game. Their weakest point lays in holding the passes. Many chances were lost by fumbles. Littell's basket shooting was sensational and he was easily the star of both teams. Of the 19 baskets registered by Glendale this fast forward threw 12. At the end of the first half Glendale led 26 to 18. Richards replaced Ilse the second half.

The line-up guards, Leppleman, Wells; center, Bidwell; forwards, Littell, Ilse and Richards. Mr. Howe refereed very efficiently.

Boxing.

Acceding to the request of a number of students, Mr. Darsie has started a class in boxing. Over thirty of the boys have signed up and while progress will be slow with such a large class, the training will prove valuable.

SCHOOL PAPER.

Under the new system of student government the official organ of the student body will be the Spectator, published weekly by a staff made up entirely of students. The first edition came out Tuesday under the management of a temporary staff pending the election of a regular staff by the assembly. The circulation manager is trying to boost the subscription list to 500, which will mean 200 outside of the school, and in view of the fact that only thirty-five cents will be charged for the year's issue (75 cents by mail) he should experience little difficulty.

Election.

The polls for the first school election under self government were closed Monday. The following officers were elected: Speaker of the assembly, Charles Wells; secretary, Catherine Hobbs; treasurer, Miss Flood; senators, Hal McNutt '13, John McCoy '14, Rita Kimball '15, Frank Brown '13, Alma Turner '13, Hasty Bidwell '15. Competition was quite keen, but the Seniors succeeded in electing a straight "Good Government" ticket.

Soccor.

Mr. Moore reports everything satisfactory in the soccor department. The first team will meet the rest of the school next Friday in the first game of the season.

Senior Walk-Away.

So far in the interclass tennis tournament the Seniors have lost only one match. They expect to put a '13 on the interclass tennis banner.

CHINA WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

One of the happiest surprises, as well as one of the prettiest social events of the season was held on Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Bachman of Ninth street, in honor of their china wedding anniversary.

Dr. and Mrs. Bachman spent the afternoon at a matinee party, dining in Los Angeles and returning home about nine o'clock to find their residence converted into a bower of lights and flowers and to be greeted by hosts of merry friends, gathered from far and near, Mrs. Bachman has recently returned from a three months trip through the middle western states, her many friends eagerly seized the opportunity of welcoming her arrival home.

The large varanda was carpeted with oriental rugs and furnished with couches and easy chairs. A beautiful effect was obtained by a bank of ferns and yellow chrysanthemums. The parlours and living rooms had been converted into a bower of green and white. The ceilings were canopied with asparagus fern and masses of white chrysanthemums were everywhere. Dancing and instrumental music were followed by a mock wedding ceremony with Dr. and Mrs. Bachman as bride and groom. The bride was attended by six bridesmaids and Mr. Spencer Robinson pronunced the words of the ceremony. Then on behalf of their friends assembled, Mr. Joseph W. Grass presented Dr. and Mrs. Bachman, a haviland china dinner set, monogramed in gold, accompanied by a little white book in which the names of the givers were written in gold.

The company then gathered in the dining room which was appropriately and beautifully adorned with pure white flowers. The honored couple were placed at the head of the banquet boards under a wedding bell of white chrysanthemums.

Following the banquet exquisite vocal music by Mr. Harry Girard, Mrs. Harry Girard, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Robinson and Mrs. Conard S. Davis, was enjoyed by all.

Hostesses of the evening were, Mrs. I. B. Foss, Mrs. Joseph duGrass, Mrs. Conard S. Davis, Mrs. Kate Mirian. Mrs. H. L. Miller and Mrs. I. J. Williams. A large number of the eighty guests were from out of town.

The affair was one of the social successes of the season.

Mr. Fred Provolt arrived in Glendale Monday last from Des Moines, where he tarried for a couple of months after the departure of the rest of the family, all the members of which are now located in Glendale, his father being a member of the firm of Provolt & Parker.

Mr. Frank Albright of Orange street returned to his home Saturday from a business trip to Imperial Valley.

THE BOND ELECTION

Water Proposition Defeated—Other Two Carry—About Half the Voters Turn Out

The total vote at the bond election on Tuesday was as follows: Precinct No. 1, 342; No. 2, 381; No. 3, 369; No. 4, 274—Total, 1366. There were about thirty votes thrown out on account of irregularities, principally because voters used a pencil to mark their ballots with instead of the rubber stamp required by law.

The following is the vote:

Precincts	1	2	3	4	Total
Water Bonds (For)	227	89	111	168	595
Against	111	283	246	96	736
Fire Bonds (For)	257	280	249	185	971
Against	65	72	89	57	283
Street Bonds (For)	251	262	226	185	924
Against	67	85	100	56	308

Considering the fact that there are over 2000 voters in the city, the vote was not a large one. The Pros were without effective organization and had few workers at the polls and no automobiles regularly on the job. The Antis on the other hand had an effective working machine and did not let many of their voters get away. They had every precinct well manned (in some cases by both sexes) and were strictly "on the job" during the entire twelve hours of the polling. Their automobiles were kept busy all the time. While the interest was intense and the feeling of the partisans of the opposing sides was at high temperature, there were few controversies at the polling places which were not of a good-natured character.

The program is one of unusual interest, consisting of numbers by the High School Orchestra, short addresses by Mr. C. O. Pulliam, president of the board of high school trustees, Mr. George U. Moyse, principal of the high school; Mr. A. B. Heacock, president of the board of trustees for the Glendale city schools, and Mr. A. M. NO-IT-AHL'S GATHER.

The members of the No-It-Ahl gathered for the first time on Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Myrtle and Emma Pulliam of 148 Kenwood street.

The home was artistically and most uniquely decorated with emblems and symbols of Halloween.

Jack-o-lanterns grinned from every nook and corner, while witches and black cats were everywhere. The lights were converted into glowing yellow flowers which cast a mellow light over the pretty scene. Masses of yellow chrysanthemums made an attractive floral touch.

The early part of the evening was devoted to music, after which five hundred occupied the attenion of all. Head prizes were awarded Miss Berenice Williams, and Mr. Fred Legg. Consolation prizes went to Miss Fern Cook and Mr. Gus Pulliam.

Following cards, the guests adjourned to the dining room where supper was served. Here every yellow shaded light was adorned by witches and black cats. Streamers of yellow and black canopied the room. The long supper table was an artistic success, but also entirely appropriate to Halloween. Yellow crepe paper decorated with mystic symbols covered the table. An immense pumpkin overflowing with red apies formed a center piece. Place favors were black moons surmounted by cats and owls and filled with bon-bons. Covers were arranged for the following twenty, Miss Lorraine Mitchell, Miss Eulalie Richardson, Miss Anna Woodberry, Miss Fern Cook, Miss Jacobs, Miss Ida Jacobs, Miss Catherine Lewis, Miss Berenice Williams, Miss Myrtle Pulliam, Miss Emma Pulliam, Mr. John Legg, Mr. Fred Legg, Mr. Dwight Stephenson, Mr. George Mitchell, Mr. Nelson Frazer, Mr. Willie Shaver, Mr. Joseph Jacobs, Mr. Fansher, Mr. Thompson, and Mr. Gus Pulliam.

Mrs. Helen Frazer assisted Mrs. Pulliam during the evening.

TO SAVE A LIFE, DISOBEYED ORDER

Navy Officer Braved Court Martial For His Act.

SAW SAILOR IN PERIL ALOFT.

Compliance With Captain's Directions, Given In Ignorance of Situation, Would Have Doomed Man In Rigging, So Lieutenant Disregarded Instructions.

MEMBERS of the Columbia Yacht club recently entertained a "real hero of the seas," says the Chicago Daily News. All unexpected, they listened to the tale of his heroism from the lips of another. The hero himself was among those most surprised. It was all an unscheduled number at a dinner given to the ex-commodores of the club. Captain W. F. Pullam, for thirty-nine years a member of the navy and at present assigned to the naval training school at North Chicago, was among the invited guests. Ex-Commodore W. Y. Perry was one of ten or more former leading officers of the club to whom the dinner was being given.

Tales of heroism at sea were being told. Captain Pullam was called upon to speak. The naval officer told of his many experiences during his long service in the navy. Toward the end of his remarks he related incidents and occurrences when he was at Annapolis on the training ship Constellation.

Hardly had the applause at the close of his remarks ceased before ex-Commodore Perry jumped to his feet and demanded recognition.

Recognized the Hero.

"I have something to say, and I want to say it before I forget it," he said. "When Captain Pullam came here this evening I did not know him, but since he has told about the Constellation I know who he is. I want to tell Captain Pullam something that he probably does not know.

"I was with Captain Pullam on the Constellation. He was a lieutenant then. I am going to tell about something he did while a lieutenant on that ship that will surprise every one here. He disobeyed the orders of his captain and he was sent below for it. But he was a hero. He had the grandest reason on earth for disobeying orders. If he had obeyed the captain's command it would have cost the life of a sailor.

"It happened like this: Captain Pullam, then Lieutenant Pullam, was on deck. Suddenly the captain ordered him to square off one of the yards. The lieutenant looked up and way up in the rigging he saw a sailor. The lad was a 'greenhorn,' a new man, and he did not realize his danger. That fellow up there in the rigging would have lost his life if the captain's order had been obeyed. The lieutenant waited anxiously for the sailor to get out of his predicament, but the fellow seemed to be perplexed and to have lost his bearings.

Had Committed Grave Offense.

"After a few minutes the captain saw that his order was being disobeyed. Without waiting for an explanation he ordered the lieutenant below. Lieutenant Pullam faced a court martial. He had committed a grave offense—ignoring an order of the captain of a ship.

"In the midst of this scene, after the lieutenant—our guest here tonight—had been put in irons, the green sailor finally came down from his perch in the rigging.

"The captain then saw at a glance why his order had been disobeyed, and he ordered the lieutenant released. Captain Pullam didn't know me then. I was a cadet on that ship, and I saw that act of heroism that has left a lasting impression on my mind. I thought then that it was a wonderful thing, the way he stood there and refused to obey his captain's order, knowing that doing so would cause a sailor to lose his life."

BIG MONKEY TRIES TO UPSET AERIALIST

Wire Walker Sways In Peril Until Baboon Is Lassoed.

Will H. Hill, the wire walker, stood poised on the thread that stretches from the main tower of Luna Park, in Coney Island, 250 yards over the lagoon and the band stand, to the main entrance. The reflection of the spot light flashed from the spangles on his breast, for he had shed the farmer's garb and whiskers that make up his costume when first he steps out on the wire. He had hung by his toes and hung by his teeth and was ready to make his final bow and start off toward the tower and firm footing when it was suddenly apparent to the watching crowd below that something had gone wrong.

The wire was swaying more and more, and the wire walker had halted and was balancing anxiously with the use of his wand. Then from the other end of the wire and moving steadily toward Hill they saw a big baboon, advancing dexterously on all fours and shaking the wire as though bent on mischief. This second wire walker was not on the program. Hill found that he could neither advance nor retreat. He just kept his balance, with his eye on that baboon.

Suddenly from the tower a rope shot out at the animal's head. It fell short and was drawn in. Again it shot out, this time to land in a noose about the baboon's neck, and he was pulled steadily in. The wire's swaying subsided, and Hill made good his escape as the crowd cheered.

The baboon arrived in New York a short time previously. He was no sooner installed as part of the Luna Park circus than the attendants realized that he was mean and given to the unexpected. He was affording amusement in the idle moments of some Iroquois Indians, part of the establishment, when he slipped past them, climbed up the tower and was out on the wire before they knew it. It was the Indians who wielded the rope.—New York Times.

Ship Almost Turned Over.

The story of a rescue under particularly difficult circumstances was told in New York by Captain A. B. Chase of the Frederick Roessner. The Roessner was lumber laden and sailed from Wilmington, N. C., for New York. A hurricane hit her at night, but she was able to weather it until the following morning, when her deck load shifted.

That took her off an even keel, and she threatened to go over on her beam ends. This happened a few hours later, but the crew had been prepared for it and clung to ropes and pulled themselves up on the schooner's starboard side.

For half an hour the Roessner lay on her beams, pitching so violently that her timbers threatened to part. Captain Chase and his men expected her to turn turtle, but fortunately her main and mizzen masts snapped off flush with the deck and she righted herself. There was a scramble back for the crew as she lifted back on her keel.

On a few cans of peas which they dragged out of the water filled cabin the men existed until a tramp steamer hove in sight. The sea was still running high, and the steamer was unable to assist because its own boats had been damaged in the blow, but she signaled the steamship Carillo.

The Carillo steered as close as caution would permit. The men were clinging to the roof of the Roessner's cabin and were taken off with great difficulty.

Shark Got Soldier's Toes.

Corporal Kirkpatrick of Company 78, at Fort Moultrie, near Charleston, was viciously attacked by an eight foot shark and seriously bitten while bathing off the post barracks. The vicious fish bit off three of Kirkpatrick's toes and lacerated his left ankle. The soldier was saved by several comrades, who beat upon the water and yelled to drive the shark away.

America's Future Development

By CHARLES STELZLE

THE United States has today an area nearly four and a half times as great as it was in 1783. In 1803, with the Louisiana purchase, the territory of this country was more than doubled. Steadily we have grown until in 1904 the Panama canal zone of 448 square miles was acquired. This latest acquisition will mean more to the United States than the mere saving of time in transporting freight. It will some day figure significantly in commanding the Pacific ocean, the future battleground of the world, for in this arena Russia, Japan, China and the United States will determine whether the world is to be dominated by the Anglo-Saxon race or by a nation which is foreign to most of the ideals which have made America great and powerful.

Thomas Carlyle once said, "Ye may boast o' yer dimocracy or any ither 'cracy or any kind o' poleetical roobish, but the reason why yer laboring folk are so happy is that ye have a vast deal o' land for a verra few people." But the day has gone by when the poor man can secure free land. We have reached the limit in this respect. We are facing a situation similar to that in many foreign lands. We have become land impoverished through our foolish generosity. Today by the mere fact of his arrival every immigrant increases the value of the land in the United States by $500. Every newborn babe has the same effect upon land values. Rents for the workingmen in our big cities have become exorbitant. The percentage of the renting farmers is increasing. In spite of our remarkable growth in land area there is a famine of land for the poor, and the poor—the people on the margin—determine the status and the standards for the whole people with regard to national prosperity and happiness. The land question is one of the greatest importance and must be reckoned with by our statesmen.

Our "Depressed" Neighbors

By CHARLES STELZLE

FOUR million "Spanish-Americans" claim our attention in Cuba, in Porto Rico and in the southwest section of the United States, although the majority are neither Spanish nor Americans. While you have no right to assume an air of pharasaical supremacy with regard to any other race or class of people, nevertheless it is our business to be mightily concerned about any group anywhere which is suffering through ignorance because of illiteracy, through superstition because of mistaken religious teaching, through immorality because of low standards of leadership. These must all be eradicated, first of all for the sake of the people themselves, but also because the weal or the woe of every man and woman and child helps to constitute the life and the thought of the world.

Much of the situation that one finds in Spanish-American countries is due to the causes just indicated. This is particularly true of Cuba, for whose birth and being the United States is so largely responsible. According to the census of 1907, the conditions with regard to illiteracy in that country were as is indicated on the above poster. Out of a total population of 2,048,980, 21,420 were carpenters, one out of every seven being illiterate. Of cigar factory operatives there were 24,161, the proportion of illiteracy being slightly higher. But these constituted the better type of workers. Of farmers, planters and farm laborers there were 364,821 males and 3,110 females. Of the males 235,027, or nearly two-thirds, were illiterate. The illiteracy among the females was in about the same proportion. About one-half of the males of voting age are illiterate. Another striking fact in connection with the life of Cuba is that 257,888, or 12.6 per cent of the total population, are illegitimate children.

But here they are—another distinct obligation which America must meet. They need schools that will not only teach their children to become efficient workmen, but which teach them the dignity and the beauty of labor. In the schools that we furnish we must therefore provide a curriculum which will combine manual training and art and music, besides the other cultural teaching, but principally we must teach those things which make for a better manhood and womanhood.

BEFORE AND AFTER CONSOLIDATION.

San Pedro Man Presents Figures to Show What It Costs to be "Taken In."

John C. Wray, publisher of the San Pedro Daily News, is using every effort to defeat the city and county consolidation amendment and has prepared a statement that is to say the least illuminating, showing what it has cost San Pedro property owners to be annexed. The statement is as follows:

Recapitulation.

Prior to consolidation the total of the salary list in the city of San Pedro was $19,020 per annum.

In 1912, three years after consolidation was perfected the total of the salary list charged to San Pedro by Los Angeles is $41,759.44, an increase in three years under Mayor Alexander's administration of $22,739.44 per annum.

The total expense of maintaining the city government of San Pedro prior to consolidation, as shown by City Clerk Mason's final report was $43,020 per annum.

The total expense of maintaining the city government of San Pedro since consolidation totals in 1912 approximately $115,000.

In a later issue of the NEWS it will furnish its readers and the public at large an itemized account of every dollar which has been drawn from the $3,000,000 harbor bond fund, even if it takes a court order to secure it.

In a published statement recently authorized by City Engineer Hamlin and Special Attorney Hewitt, in which harbor bond money figures were used, there remains unaccounted for approximately $164,000—and it is this money which must be accounted for, as it belongs to the whole people.

An itemized accounting of Hamlin's trip to Europe and Hewitt's various excursions outside of the law would make interesting reading any old time.

Beat This Amendment.

The proposed amendment to Section 7, Article XI, of the constitution should be beaten at the election, and soundly beaten.

The constitution now requires a two-thirds majority to divide a county. This is a wise provision, since every county in this state and everywhere else, has been attended by corrupt practices to influence votes. This proposed amendment removes that two-thirds bar to corruption and provides that division may be made by a bare majority. Therefore, San Francisco is not only asking the people to permit her to dismember her unwilling neighbors, but to make it as cheap as possible, since it is much easier to colonize or buy a bare majority than two-thirds.

While this is recognized as largely a San Francisco proposition, intended to pave the way to the swallowing up of parts of the bay counties, it is scarcely of less interest in Southern California, and much of Los Angeles county is up in arms for fear that city will take advantage of the opportunity and gobble Pasadena, Long Beach and all of the coast settlements.

No district should be subjected to such dangers. One Los Angeles paper apologizes in an easy sort of way to the effect that the amendment does not do anything—just makes it possible. Therein is its vice. It does make possible something that ought not to be possible.

Put an "X" where it will do the most harm to that amendment, which will appear sixth on the ballot at the November election."

By Prof. Carl C. Plehn, University of California, Secretary of the State Commission on Revenue and Taxation.

The first objection to the "Home Rule in Taxation" amendment is that the single taxers, with the financial aid of their good angel, Mr. Fels of Philadelphia, have not been as frank with the people as they should be. The title of the measure should be "A proposal to permit the people of any community to adopt the single tax."

Taxation in any form is not a matter of local concern, like control of streets and sewers, because it inevitably affects the movement of capital and the channels of trade from one community to another. It follows that a confusion of tax systems through which capital accumulated at one point and unable to find sufficient investment there may desire to move will result in a hampering of industry and commerce, a lessening of investments and restraint upon development.

With seevral thousand politician subdivisions empowered frame their own revenue systems it would be impossible for anybody to keep track of the rates or time of taxation, so that capital seeking investment would become so shy that it would be practically withdrawn.

When the proponents of this measure are asked to explain the special program they wish to put through, we receive no definite answer. We are informed that we ought to trust the people, who may be depended upon to work out an ideal system of taxation. Nobody desires to express distrust of the wisdom of the people, guided or unguided, but it is obvious that the persons who have rushed in with this proposal must have something up their sleeves that they desire to put through.

It has been freely admitted that this amendment is intended to pave the way for single tax, which contemplates that all taxes should ultimately fall upon the land. As a result of the adoption of the new state tax system about $4,000,000 of the excessive burden of taxation formerly imposed upon the land has been taken off it. Therefore I regard this strategically masqueraded amendment of the single taxers as a measure dangerous to the interests of the farmer and the wage earner; as a reactionary measure of no benefit to anybody and as inevitably bound to create a new set of favored interests. Under the specious plea of bringing into the communities new industries, it would grant exemption to a host of new interests who would grow so fat and large that we should have to fight them in turn.

The confusion of taxation and the impossibility of effecting advance by this means; the injustice that would arise; the warfare between communities and the pampering of special interests are sufficient grounds for defeat of this amendment.

The County Charter

This instrument comes up also before the people for approval or rejection on Tuesday. It's principal feature is the putting directly into the hands of the five supervisors practically all the power of the county government, the appointment of a majority of the officers and their assistants, including a civil service commission. The object of the civil service commission is supposed to be to act as a curb upon the power of the supervisors, but as the commission is appointed by the latter body it is apparent that it will not be an effective curb, but will serve only to confirm the imperial five in their lease of power. The following new offices are also proposed: Public Defender, Registrar of Voters, Road Commissioner, Supt. of Charities and County Counsel. The total number of officers to be elected by the people is reduced to the following: Five Supervisors, Sheriff, District Attorney and Assessor. The NEWS is opposed to this concentration or power, believing that it will result in a political machine over which the people will have almost no power, the recall notwithstanding.

RANDALL FOR THE ASSEMBLY.

The action of two hundred prominent citizens of Highland Park, leaders in the social, religious and political aaffirs of that community, in signing the following endorsement of Assemblyman Charles H. Randall for re-election, is particularly significant in view of the fact that all of the other candidates for the Assembly are also residents of Highland Park:

"In order that the interests of the people of the county of Los Angeles may best be served, we should have the ablest representation possible in the legislature. You have served in the capacity of a lawmaker and have not been found wanting. Your experience and comprehension of the needs of the people will enable you to do more efficient work in the accomplishment of needed reforms than any one now before the people for representative from this district.

With your record in the last Assembly for integrity of purpose and unswerving adherence to the right, and your ability to successfully carry through an issue against great and unscrupulous opposition, we, the undersigned citizens and voters of the Sixty-first Assembly district, all your neighbors, most earnestly request that you become a candidate for re-election to the Assembly from this district."

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER.

What the Herald says:

The country newspaper is the best of all advertising mediums.

It beats billboards.

It beats street cr advertising.

It beats circularizing by mail or distributing handbills from door to door.

It beats all of these because of the personality of the publisher.

And the publisher's profits should be not less than $6 annually for every copy of the paper sold.

Little by little advertisers will come to learn the value of the country newspaper, and very rapidly, let us hope, the country editors will come to learn the value of that which they have for sale and will demand and get their share of the national prosperity, acting as national, industrial and commercial representatives, and not merely as the local mouthpieces of local merchants barely able to support themselves.

A CLOSE SHAVE.

A runaway horse, fortunately without a vehicle attached, dashed around the corner of Glendale avenue into Broadway last Wednesday afternoon and hit the sidewalk at a lively clip. Passing in front of Guernsey's jewelry store, the animal collided with a lighting post and swung around with its heels towards the plate glass window. The animal began a high kicking stunt, and actually kicked from the face of the window two aluminum sign letters, and never cracked the glass. A lady crossing the street had a narrow escape, being saved by the quick action of a passerby, who grabbed her in his arms and got her out of the way.

PERIL IN HUNT OF IVORY SMUGGLERS

Inspectors Risk Lives to Prevent Illicit Traffic.

The story of the recent pursuit and killing of James W. Rogers, an American, for elephant poaching in central Africa is but one of the many tales that could be told of illicit ivory trading.

A superintendent of police in British East Africa tells in the Evening Sun of New York the following story of one of his experiences with ivory smugglers: "I had been in command of the Mombasa district police only a short time when one of my inspectors secured news of the approach of an unusually large caravan of ivory in charge of a notorious Arab who had been killing elephants on the Abyssinian borders for two years past. It meant much to us if we could capture the $20,000 caravan. Our native 'plain clothes policemen' failed to get any definite news as to the place and time of arrival, so my English inspector, Watcham by name, disguised himself as an Arab and after days of risking his life at last got on the trail of the ivory caravan. While sitting in an Arab coffee house he became suspicious of the travel stained Arabs. He followed them to the house of the Arab ivory smuggler, and there he heard the two give this message to a beautiful Arab woman: 'Greeting, O Alima,' said one. 'I come from your husband with a message. Tonight he is bringing the ivory near Juma's house in the swamp at the Makupa bridge, and he wants you to go with him tomorrow to see the place and then show it to the Indian merchants three nights hence, when a dhow will take it out to Zanzibar.'

"Watcham only by luck escaped detection after securing this wonderful piece of news. Needless to say we laid our plans in accordance. On the proper night we coucealed ourselves in the swamp, and when we saw the Arab's wife and four men, each carrying tusks, come out of Juma's hut we knew that we had not been misled. While Watcham and four men took a position on the path by which the Arab smugglers must come from the dhow in the creek I and my men captured the woman, who had returned to the hut, and two Arabs. Shortly afterward Watcham and his man captured six Arabs, magnificent in their picturesque native finery.

"The woman after much persuasion and the promise of immunity showed us the hiding place of the precious hoard of tusks, and we soon had in our possession the large consignment of tusks which represented untold dangers that had been undergone in procuring it. The Arabs were sentenced to six months' hard labor and fines of 1,000 rupees each. The woman was allowed to go free."

Rides Whaleback at Sea.

Antone Sousa of Boston recently made himself the hero of the famous world's fishing center, T wharf, Boston harbor, by riding on the back of a whale far out at sea.

The schooner Louis R. Silva came in with a remarkable but said to be veracious tale. Forty miles southeast of Highland light the dorymen suddenly found themselves surrounded by a great school of whales, the most numerous ever seen in that part of the Atlantic. One mighty leviathan surged up under the dory in which were Sousa and a companion, and a twitch of the whale's tail smashed the boat.

Sousa leaped into the sea and landed on the back of the whale. He slid back and forth on the big, slippery surface while the whale sped along. After a ride of 200 yards Sousa slipped off close to the side of the schooner and was picked up by the crew.

GLENDALE, CAL., NOVEMBER 1, 1912

TO VOTE FOR TAFT AND SHERMAN.

The following are the names of the thirteen presidential electors who represent Taft and Sherman in California. Republicans wishing to vote for the candidates of their party will write on their ballots these names:

Andrea Sbarboro.
Norman Bridge.
Ross Campbell.
Charles E. Clinch.
Arthur E. Miller.
Joseph Martin.
Mrs. K. M. Flynn.
Anson S. Blake.
Frederick Dodge.
Charles N. Felton.
J. Bixby.
Robert Sweeney.
Simon Levy.

The dawn of world-wide peace seems to have been indefinitely postponed.

And now somebody proposes that wives be paid wages. A good suggestion, but why not husbands?

There are 984,633 voters registered in California, 180,000 of whom are women. Los Angeles leads the other counties, having 259,115 registrations. The total in the state shows an increase of 400,000 since 1910.

Now really, isn't Glendale a nice juicy, almost bondless little municipal morsel for Los Angeles to swallow? Couldn't have been fixed up more attractively if planned by the public service commission. Start the annexation petition. Don't let us stagnate!

Contributions amounting to $558,311 were acknowledged by the Republican presidential campaign committee in its filed statement the other day. It is noticeable that the only trust magnate contributing is J. P. Morgan to the extent of $25,000. Perkins, McCormick, Munsey and Hanna, are names not found in the list.

The death of Vice-President Sherman removes a popular character from the scene of human activity. Mr. Sherman, as vice-president, had the possibility of higher honors in view, as owing to the probability of the election of president being decided by the senate on the 4th of March next, he would have stood an excellent chance of being selected for that high position.

The Pasadena city council has sent a circular letter to nineteen Southern California cities asking them to exercise their power to fix rates to be charged for electricity by the Edison company. This company has been fighting the Pasadena municipal lighting system for years, keeping its rates at all times below those charged by the city, its rate there at present for light being four cents a kilowatt while in other cities the company serves varies from 6½ cens in Los Angeles to 10 cents in Pomona, Claremont, Redlands and Chino.

"As a question of honesty and justice," says United States Senator John D. Works (a real Progressive and elected as such), "the present Progressive candidates in this state and nation have no just or legal right on a Republican ballot. The whole thing is a contemptible deception and fraud."

"If they attempt, by direct or indirect means, to hold on to the machinery or offices of the old party, while working with or for a new one, or its establishment, they can not longer cry thief to the men they charge with stealing delegates at Chicago, and no man of right political principles can consistently support their new party." —Senator Works.

THE BOND ELECTION.

Glendale has had a set-back in its latest attempt to get into the front rank of the growing and progressive young cities of Southern California. But it is only a temporary halt, the procession will soon move on again and let us hope that the small boys and others who hung on to the hind wheels when the start is made, will let go, move forward and get into the band wagon where all may ride together in beautiful Harmony (large H.). There were a number of reasons why the proposition to purchase the local water systems did not carry and there are so many morals to be gathered from the election returns that we might dilate upon them ad infinitem et ceteratum, etc., but what's the use—this is not a post mortem—the thing is by no means dead.

"CRITICAL HYSTERIA."

Mr. Wm. H. Humphyers of the Los Angeles board of public works has resigned that position. Mr. Humphreys is quoted as saying that he no longer cares to serve the public when every public servant is the object of "critical hysteria." Certainly every public servant, particularly those who serve the public gratis, must sympathize with Mr. Humphrey and acknowledge that his remark is founded upon fact. No matter how earnestly a man in a public office may work for the public welfare, nor how disinterestedly, he is made, the mark for this "hysterical criticism" which Mr. Humphrey speaks of, and the fact does not by any means add to the promotion of the public welfare, for it has a tendency to keep out of public life the very men who are best fitted to give honest and efficient service. It is largely as a result of this attitude of the non-discriminating public critic that there are in office a good many time-serving officials who have no fixed principles, but who trim their sails to every imagined passing whim of public favor. But this class of men are not in the majority of those in public place. It is safe to say that the most of our public servants are giving to the people good and honest service, but unjust criticism is sometimes in itself enough to swerve a man of good intent from the straight and narrow path, on the specious plea that "one may as well have the game as the name."

The NEWS has tried for years past to give its patrons information about the local water supply, but we confess that it has been a mistake. At great expense we secured the services of an egotistical moss-back who had grown up with the water system when it was originated some time during the last century, who from time to time oozed forth knowledge in our columns. But what availed it? The tenderfoot from the country where water is noted principally for its pernicious activity in the spring of the year when the floods come, came in and down upon us in hosts of multitudinous experts and told us the things about water that were never heard of in heaven or earth before, overwhelmed us with facts and fancies of tremendous weight and made our expert look like thirty cents in a bay window; and now in self protection we have taken his name from the pay roll and will give the job to the first expert on "rusty rotten" water pipe who comes along, provided he will tell us honestly who it was that paid his automobile bills last Tuesday!

THE TORRENS LAND SYSTEM.

There is a strong probability that a serious effort will be made at the next session of the legislature to secure legislation making effective the Torrens system of furnishing and insuring land titles. There is no doubt but that this act or something similar would have been made effective long ago had it not been for the opposition of the title companies which have a practical monopoly of this business.

These concerns have become so rapacious in their demands that the necessity for relief has become pressing. The system in itself is not a bad one, but the prices for the most simple "search" have gradually been pushed upward in an effort to secure all that the victim will stand, until the expense is actually beginning to be a drag upon the real estate business, while the borrower is frequently compelled to continue to pay a high rate of interest on his mortgage indebtedness, by reason of the expense necessary to be incurred in refunding. It is of interest to note that two of our Los Angeles county state senators are representatives of one of the principal title guarantee companies in Los Angeles; what they will do to the Torrens act when it gets to them in the senate is scarcely guess work!

NEXT WEEK'S ELECTION.

The most remarkable presidential campaign in the history of the United States is nearly ended. It is unique in many features, but the one most notable is the apparent apathy of the business interests of the country which refuse to tremble at any possibility that may materialize next Tuesday. The situation seems to be this: the continuance of the present administration will mean a continuance of the present area of prosperity, beyond a doubt. This leaves the other possibilities on a fair balance between Wilson and Roosevelt. Although standing on the time-honored "tariff for revenue only" platform, no one seriously believes that if elected Mr. Wilson will do anything radical. There is nothing in the character of the man as yet developed which indicates a desire to try any serious experiments, therefore he will not break down the protective tariff wall but will permit the people to go on, as far as he is concerned, in the old way that is tried and safe. The other possibility is Theodore Roosevelt, once president, and a very conservative president too as far as the "interests" were concerned. His close alliance with them in a very recent and more distant past has been made clear by the senate investigation and so the men who control the big affairs of the country understand that his protestations of devotion to the "common people" as against Wall street, is all a stage effect to impress and secure the votes of the very numerous class to which he so loudly appeals. And so there is no alarm in Wall street, the captains of industry do not tremble. And the people at large are strangely silent; the torchlight procession, the brass band and the spellbinder have not been much in evidence. Fifteen million voters have not been heard from, a million or two have been making all the noise. If there should be ten millions of them register their votes next Tuesday, it would be a large vote under the circumstances.

The political meetings are poorly attended, even the great Hiram over beyond the Rockies draws crowds only because of his wild and wooly reputation and the lesser lights orate to yawning benches. The American people are surfeited with politics, they are so busy making money that they do not care to take the trouble to leave home to be instructed. If there is not a light vote on Tuesday next, then all signs fail. As for the result in the country at large, Wilson is undoubtedly in the lead. Roosevelt will receive a large popular vote, but not a majority in the electoral college. Taft will probably be second in the race, but Roosevelt may lead him. It is very probable that neither of the three candidates will have a majority of the electoral votes and that the election will go to the house of representatives. Then, as the states are equally divided between the Republicans and Democrats, represented by their congressional delegations, the matter may have to go to the senate for a decision. The situation is rich in possibilities.

A TRUE STORY OF A MAD ELEPHANT.

Now that the circus season is at hand I am reminded of a story told me by an old gentleman of a strange performance he once witnessed when a school boy. Several years ago there was a circus building in Philadelphia managed I think by Barnum and old "Columbus," an elephant of enormous size, took part in the performances, was a vicious old fellow and had a bad record. One day he made his escape into the ring and with fearful trumpeting greatly alarmed the wild beasts confined in the cages, which with their roaring, growling and the screams of the monkeys and parrots, made a perfect pandemonium.

Back of the circus building was a stable from the loft of which a view could be obtained of the performances in the ring. The boys hearing of the great commotion hastened to the loft and beheld the sight of their lives. Old Columbus with his trunk uplifted and trumpeting like a demon was madly racing around the ring defying the keepers to capture him. They would have to flee to the tiers of steps when he would follow them crushing all before him as far in as his body could go, trying to reach them, and then in his fury turn to the cages and try to liberate the animals. One wolf was out fleeing around the ring and the lions and tigers soon would have been also, but the elephant's legs became entangled in the chains and ropes and he was again for from the navy yard and orders a captive. A cannon had been sent were given to kill him should he escape through the main entrance. So ended one of the most sensational performances ever witnessed in any circus.

ENDORSEMENT OF E. D. GOODE.

Hadlyme, Conn., Oct. 25, 1912.
Editor GLENDALE NEWS.

The arrival of the NEWS each week always brings interesting reading matter, and enables us to not lose touch wholly with Glendale, and the beautiful valley over which she sits as queen. I can hardly contrast the sedate little miss of 1902, with the brilliant mistress of today, surely 'tis a record to be proud of.

The article that most interested me in your issue of October 18th (and which I am constrained to emphasize in a few lines), was headed by a portrait of my old friend, Mr. E. D. Goode, he being a candidate for supervisor in the Fifth district.

I have carefully perused that article, and the statements made therein, and an intimate acquaintance with him of seven years, during which time the writer was engaged in close business relations with him, I always found him a man of honor and true to his convictions, and I believe eminently qualified to fill the office of supervisor of his district.

Such a man in these times of moral degeneracy in places of public trust, should be rewarded with the support of the voters in his district, to those who know him and his record, nothing needs to be said, but to those who have been denied this priviledge and who desire to have a man who is fearless, honest, and who fully appreciates the needs of his district, and knows what to do when in office. To this class I would appeal, and ask them to think well before casting their ballot.

I regret that I am not able to cast a ballot for him. Sincerely yours,

E. S. COMSTOCK.

Nesom, the enterprising druggist on the corner of Broadway and Brand Blvd. is celebrating this week the fourth anniversary of his embarking in business, as will be seen by reference to his half-page advertisement in this issue. You can safely vote for the sixth amendment on the ballot.—(Adv.)

COULDN'T BLUFF THE WHITE MEN

Indians Tried That Game on an Exploring Party.

WANTED TO SCARE THEM OFF

Three Warnings Failed to Instill Fear of Medicine Men Into Paleface Hearts, So Natives Finally Gave It Up as a Bad Job.

A BRIGHT woman named Mrs. Matilda Cox Stevenson, connected with the Smithsonian institution, had some great experiences among the aboriginal tribes of the southwest and tells this story of their bickerings with the Sia, a branch of the Zuni community.

"When we went among the Sia in the early eighties they were determined to prevent us from entering their village or attending their dances. They made things so utterly unpleasant that we were obliged to pitch our camp in a small valley some distance away, pending the rain dances, preparations for which were then going forward in the shekio. This occurred in the morning and about noon a delegation of the Sia Indians arrived, bringing word from their chief medicine men that unless we left by 2 o'clock that day we should be killed.

Paid No Attention to the Indians.

"We paid no attention to them, however, and shortly after 2 o'clock another party appeared, giving us to understand that if we were not away from there by 6 that evening they would not answer or be responsible for what would follow. Again we paid no attention to their mouthings, and, just as we expected, shortly after sunset a third and larger party arrived to inform us in an exceeding hostile and threatening manner that we were courting certain death in thus disregarding the orders of their medicine men. These potentates, by the way, wielded almost absolute power.

The White Man's Message.

"After the spokesman had delivered his message, Mr. Stevenson said:

"'You sent one party this morning, who said we would be killed unless we left by 2 o'clock. Two o'clock came, and we were not killed. Then your medicine men sent another delegation, who told us to leave by sun down or else we should be shot. That time has passed, and still we are not killed. Then your wise men send you, the third party, with the same message. I have said nothing. My mouth has remained dumb, but now I shall speak. My message is far different from those sent by your medicine men, who talk like men, but act as squaws. They have sent me three messages. Now I shall send them one. Go back and tell your great and wise men that if they send any more delegates they shall be killed without mercy and to a man. I want no more messages from your chiefs. Go then and repeat to them what I have said. If any more delegations arrive the members shall suffer death.'

"The Indians were evidently taken aghast at our boldness. For any one to defy their medicine men was something new, an unheard of and preposterous thing, and they left our camp the most surprised set of fellows you ever saw. We had seven or eight Navajos, who were not overfriendly with the Sia and who asked nothing better than to play a grim joke on them; and, seeing the lay of the land and that unless further steps were taken to teach these Indians a lesson, we should be constantly annoyed all during our stay among them, Mr. Stevenson, on the morning following this affair, took this party of Navajos and several soldiers and, entering the Sia pueblo, arrested seven of their principal medicine men. We held them prisoners in our camp for nearly a week and had no further trouble from the tribe."—Field and Farm.

THE RAIN.

Oh, what a blessing is the rain
That falleth gently to the earth!
How many million blades of grass
A single shower giveth birth!

It purifies the atmosphere;
It filleth up the crystal springs;
It bringeth joy to rustling corn.
The desert claps its hands and sings.

It sparkles in the rose's heart;
It glistens on the golden wheat;
It brings to all the wine of life.
Oh, sparkling raindrops, pure and sweet!

The flowers praise thee with their breath,
The birds give welcome in glad glee,
The green trees wave their leafy boughs.
Oh, precious shower, to welcome thee!

The desert blossoms as the rose,
Green hills drink in refreshment free,
The rivers, seas and babbling brooks
Bear richer gifts because of thee.

I thank thee, Father, for the rain
That bringeth drink and daily bread.
I thank thee for thy wondrous gifts,
In richest bounty round me spread.

GOOD MONEY IN COCKERELS.

Here's a question sent us that worries many poultry raisers: "Is there a way I can make a profit on my surplus cockerels?"

Yes. To get topnotch prices crate fatten or caponize them.

The reason there is so little money in cockerels is because they are sold in poor condition, and poor goods command a poor price.

Some people call cockerels a by-product, but they may be made a main source of income if treated as we suggest.

To crate fatten they are simply placed in an elevated crate and fed the following trough mixture for twenty-four days:

Equal parts ground oats, barley and buckwheat wet up with whole milk, skimmilk or buttermilk to the consistency of cream.

First week feed warm three times a day all they can eat in fifteen minutes.

Second week twice a day all they can clean up in thirty minutes.

Last ten days substitute cornmeal for buckwheat. Water, grit, charcoal, must be kept before the birds, and they must be kept free from filth and lice.

We show a picture of White Rock capons that were emasculated at three months, dressed at ten months, reached as high as fifteen pounds live weight and sold for 30 cents. The operation is easy. They are easy to raise and pay better than turkeys.

Feed capons as follows:

Keep hoppers of wheat, cracked corn, hulled oats, beef scrap, grit, shell and charcoal before them. At night feed a milk mash of two parts bran and one each of wheat mids, ground oats and cornmeal.

Two weeks before market remove hoppers and three times a day feed a milk mash, four parts cornmeal, two parts mids, two parts ground oats and one part bran, and throw in a little cracked corn between meals.

DON'TS.

"Don't cry over spilt milk" when the cow kicks the bucket, but if it's your fault don't be a liar and blame Mariar.

Don't forget that green corn and buckwheat are the cause of many deaths among the turkeys in the fall.

Don't let the sparrows get the sunflower seeds. Firecrackers thrown at them occasionally soon put you on their black list.

Don't expect hens to do well on musty litter. Money put into good straw for scratch is not wasted. Droppings mixed with litter and allowed to rot make the finest fertilizer.

Don't laugh at your city kozens when they come on the farm. They may not know all about cows, nor do you know all about "bulls and bears" and highballs.

THE LAW FOR SHIPPING CRATES.

The Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals should have the praise and co-operation of all decent people for its efforts to prevent and ameliorate the suffering of dumb brutes and fowls and to punish the unmerciful.

This society is especially watchful over the shipment of fowls and has arrested many offenders during the past year.

Those arrested and fined were mostly large shippers, who gather up a great many fowls and ship in large lots, or middlemen, who haul crates about the city.

Some poultrymen, of course, were caught in the net. Such have no excuse.

Packing fowls into small, badly ventilated coops is not only rank cruelty,

GOOD HOMEMADE CRATES.

but shows poor business policy, for it means dead fowls and loss in weight. The offender makes himself liable to fine and imprisonment, as does the company and agent who receive and transport the goods, and any necessary expense which may be incurred for taking charge of the abused fowls is a lien thereon, to be paid before fowls can be lawfully recovered.

We insert rules of S. P. C. A. covering poultry shipments:

Standard size coop, 2 feet long by 3 feet wide, with solid board bottom and slatted or spindled tops and sides, slats not to be over one and one-half inches wide.

Coops for turkeys should not be less than twenty inches high.

Coops for geese should not be less than sixteen inches high.

Coops for old roosters should not be less than sixteen inches high.

Coops for large fowls should not be less than sixteen inches high.

Coops for ducks should not be less than twelve inches high.

Coops for small fowl should not be less than twelve inches high.

Coops for spring chickens should not be less than twelve inches high.

Turkey gobblers five to a coop.
Turkey hens six to a coop.
Geese, large, six to a coop.
Geese, medium, eight to a coop.
Geese, small, ten to a coop.
Ducks, large, ten to a coop.
Ducks, medium, fourteen to a coop.
Ducks, small, eighteen to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, seven to ten pounds apiece, eight to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, five to seven pounds apiece, ten to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, four to five pounds apiece, fourteen to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, three to four pounds apiece, sixteen to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, two to three pounds apiece, eighteen to a coop.
Roosters and fowls, one to two pounds apiece, twenty to a coop.
Squab pigeons should not be shipped under six weeks old.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

New wheat, especially the white, must be fed sparingly at the start. Red wheat is best for all poultry. Pigeons should not be fed much wheat, as it gives them the scours.

For some reason or other the embryo eggs in the hen's one cluster never develop. If in some way these little yolks could be quickened to life the 400 egg hen would soon be a reality, and the egg production of the country would double to 3,182,622,742 dozen. Instead of using up gray matter, time and appropriations chasing the elusive "coccidosis" germ, those big guns at Washington should center their attention on this matter and thus get cheaper eggs for their nog.

When all the farms keep thoroughbred flocks and all the eggs are gathered, stored and sold correctly the egg crop will go over a billion in advance.

In Pottsville, Pa., so many chickens disappeared that watch was kept on certain persons suspected of the hen lifting. The mystery was cleared when several minks were shot right in the center of the city.

Indications are that soft corn will abound in the east this season. If sliced while fresh chickens relish the juicy cob and all, and it agrees with them if not too much is fed at a time.

Weed seeds are being used extensively to adulterate feeding stuffs. In eight counties in Pennsylvania adulterators were recently fined $50 apiece for the trick. When ground, stock is compelled to eat them, but when fed whole in grain mixture to fowls these seeds are generally discarded and grow up to be a pest to the land where they fall.

Three things especially essential to caponizing are good light, good instruments and a steady hand. Practice on a few dead roosters soon puts the novice on to the job, and he is surprised how easy it is.

G. M. Barnitz.

MATURING THE PULLETS.

When young stock show sex they should be separated, and the pullets in their bachelor quarters should have special care to bring them to a splendid maturity, and by this we mean they should be built into strong hens that are prime layers, that are stayers and payers. These pullets should be divided into flocks and quartered in open front houses at such a distance apart that they will not mix, and they should have a well drained range among the fields, woods, orchards, where they get green food and natural protein from bugs and wigglers.

They must not be crowded and should have airy quarters. They should not be left to huddle at night, but be taught to roost as soon as large enough, and they must be kept free from lice, mites and filth, a triumvirate that kills or stunts millions of young birds each season.

ARTIFICIAL SHADE.

There should be shade, natural or artificial; plenty of pure water, grit and shell, and as they develop their points the poor pullets should be culled out, for once a cull always a cull, and sex makes no exception.

Pullets should not be fed forcing food if strong, continuous layers are wanted. They should be built big to stand the strain of heavy laying, and if indications of laying show before they are prepared for it they should be fed a broader ration (less protein) and changed from place to place, for a precocious pullet is nearly always a fizzler.

In feeding take into consideration what they get off range.

Oats, corn, wheat, equal parts, is a good whole grain ration, and the following mixture may be fed dry in hoppers or be given in moist mash once a day:

	Pounds
Wheat bran	50
Heavy ground oats	50
Cornmeal	50
Wheat mids	25
Beef scrap	50
Charcoal	5

Twenty-five pounds cut clover or alfalfa should be added when other greens are not fed.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Watch the hens run to hunt gravel when they have finished a whole grain feed. It's as necessary to their digestion as your teeth are to yours, and they can't get along without it. Keep grit before them when the snow covers up the natural article.

When an enthusiast hears an old poultryman tell him to go slow and learn before he goes into chickens deep, let him take the lesson to heart, for that advice applies to all business, and many a good promising fellow has made a bad failure because he didn't follow it.

Low fertility was extensively reported the past season. This may be generally ascribed to overfat breeders, overworked layers, old wornout roosters and a departure from natural methods.

Young stock sleeping in a bunch so long are hard to break from huddling. It requires a lot of patience at times to teach them to roost, while the turkeys fly into the trees almost as soon as their wings sprout.

Ducks are bound to get dirty if they have no bedding, and when they sleep on the floor in the chicken house they become a sight, and their plaster droppings make the place rank. Fowls that are raised in filth lack stamina and aren't fit for food.

Many claim to tell the age of a fowl by the spur. This really is not reliable, for we have seen roosters of the same age and size grow spurs of different lengths. Our Canadian experts try to tell us that the quality of the meat is shown by the spur. They say a hard, unpliable spur indicates a coarse, tough carcass, while a soft, pliable spur denotes quality. This is true.

Oregon has a poultry special equipped with poultry and poultry appliances and lecturers to demonstrate up to date poultry culture to the people. Thousands of people met this train and heard the lectures, and on one trip 25,000 copies of poultry literature were distributed.

It is rather tedious grading up a mongrel farm flock by mating a pure bred cock to mongrel hens. It pays better and quicker to buy a bunch of thoroughbreds and raise their chicks or to buy and set pure bred eggs and sell the mongrels to the butcher.

Baptiste Diablo, a half breed Indian, is declared to be the fastest chicken picker in the world. He has taken sixty chickens from a crate, killed, scalded and picked them in thirty minutes and has killed, picked, dressed and placed a broiler in the cooker in one minute.

(2.) Why is it impossible to learn spiritual truth when in an antagonistic frame of mind?

(3.) What caused the Sadducees and Pharisees, who hated each other, to unite in their hatred of Jesus?

(4.) What was the nature of the "sign" they wanted?

(5.) Verses 12-13—What reason is there to believe that if Jesus had performed ever so wonderful a "sign" it would have made any difference in their attitude to him?

(6.) Why did their request for a sign make Jesus feel so sad? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(7.) Was their opposition to Jesus honest or dishonest? Give your reasons.

(8.) Why did not the wonderful "signs" which Jesus had already performed satisfy them?

(9.) Which cause is the more influential in keeping men from Christ today, a lack of evidence of the truth of Christianity or the love of sin? Give your reasons.

(10.) Verse 14—If the disciples ought to have taken bread and did not, was the forgetting a sinful act?

(11.) Is it ever wrong to forget and, if so, under what circumstances?

(12.) Verses 15-16—As Jesus did not mean to reprove them for not taking bread, whether they were blameworthy or not, why did their consciences accuse them of neglect?

(13.) What does literal leaven do, and what did Jesus mean by "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the leaven of Herod?"

(14.) Why ought all who would be good to beware of pharisaical hypocrisy, ostentation, pride, formalism and placing the letter before the spirit and of Herodian superstition, sensuality and cruelty?

(15.) What should be the compelling spirit of every Christ man?

(16.) Verses 17-18—What part does a clear conscience, an unselfish spirit and a tender heart play in understanding the ways of God?

(17.) What error or sin were these apostles guilty of to merit this rebuke of Jesus?

(18.) Verses 19-21—When we do our duty is there any need to fear for our bread and butter? Why?

(19.) How many times in your life have you eaten all the food you have had or could procure, and how many times have you had plenty of food left after every meal? Then why do you worry for the future?

(20.) Verses 22-26—Why do you think Jesus used different outward methods in restoring sight to the blind?

(21.) How many different types of conversion and of religious experience are there? Did you ever know any two exactly alike?

(22.) What analogy is there between this man's experience and when our spiritual eyes are first opened?

PROUD SOUTH AMERICA.

If there is any idea left in the American mind that the United States may ultimately annex any South American countries it had better be forgotten permanently. Annexation would not be desirable for either side. We can easily retain all the commercial benefits of association with these countries without assuming new territorial responsibilities. The good will of the South Americans is worth a good deal to us. They are not like the Mexicans or the Filipinos or even the Central Americans. They are a proud people, and their culture—a fact which is usually forgotten, but which is important in understanding the situation—is much older than ours. There were universities in South America long before the pilgrims landed on Plymouth rock. Twenty-five per cent of the population can read and write. They are not barbaric, and they don't need "uplifting." If the United States ever tries to "uplift" them by annexation they will ally themselves with Germany or some other European country. In many states of Brazil the legal forms used are already those of Germany.—Charles W. Furlong.

ON JUDGES.

Judges ought to be more learned than witty, more reverent than plausible and more advised than confident. Above all things, integrity is their portion and proper virtue.—Bacon.

He who the sword of heaven will bear
Should be as holy as severe,
Pattern in himself to know,
Grace to stand and virtue go,
More nor less to others paying
Than by self offenses weighing.
Shame to him whose cruel striking
Kills for faults of his own liking!

—Shakespeare.

Four things belong to a judge—to hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly and to decide impartially.—Socrates.

ON THE NATURE OF WEALTH.

A man is not poor because he has nothing, but because he does not work. The man who, without any degree of wealth, has an employment is as much at his ease as he who without labor has an income of 100 crowns a year. He who has no substance and yet has a trade is not poorer than he who, possessing ten acres of land, is obliged to cultivate it for his substance. The mechanic who gives his art as an inheritance to his children has left them a fortune which is multiplied in proportion to their number. It is not so with him who, having ten acres of land, divides it among his children.—Montesquieu.

POLITICAL COWARDICE.

The great vice of our people in their relation to the politics of the land is cowardice. It is not lack of intelligence. Our people know the meaning of political conditions with wonderful sagacity. It is not low morality. The great mass of our people apply high standards to the acts of public men. But it is cowardice. It is the disposition of one part of our people to fall in with current ways of working to run with the mass and of another part to rush headlong into this or that new scheme or policy of opposition merely to escape the stigma of conservatism. — Phillips Brooks.

Mrs. W. C. Wattles of Glendale avenue is entertaining for the winter her sister from Chicago.

Homer D. Brown of Glendale is just completing a fine home on Central avenue for Hartley Shaw an attorney of Los Angeles.

An ordinance has been passed by the board prohibiting minors under the age of 18 years being out on the Tropico street after the hour of 8 o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. George Ragland of Glendale avenue, is doing a week's performance on the Orpheum stage in Los Angeles. Her specialty is whistling and vocal selections, in which her endeavors are really artistic.

John Kirkham and family, who for the past several months have been living on their ranch near El Monte, have returned to their home on Central avenue, this city, to remain for some time.

The house and lot at the corner of Glendale avenue and Cypress street has been purchased by H. E. Chandler, who a short time ago disposed of his property on Central avenue, just north of Park avenue.

Master Jamie Shea entertained a number of his classmates of the Glendale Union high school at his home this week. There were about twenty guests present and an unusually pleasant time was experienced.

William Morgan has purchased the interest of his partner, Guy Maxwell, who has been forced to give up his business on account of ill health. Mr. Maxwell is slowly recovering at his home on Parke avenue.

A five-acre tract on Moore avenue has been purchased by J. C. Green, a real estate dealer of Los Angeles. It is reported that Mr. Green will improve the place and transform the property into an ideal home place.

We are pleased to mention that Mrs. J. R. Maxwell, who for the past several days has been in the Sisters' hospital in Los Angeles, on account of illness, is again at her home on Park avenue, and is slowly recovering.

"Lol" Chandler and family of Elizabeth Lake, are entertaining for two weeks Mr. Chandler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chandler of Cypress street, this city. Mr. Chandler, who for some time has been in ill health, is slowly recovering.

Speeders should beware of Tropico, and should hereafter slow up when passing through this thriving city. City Marshal Gould has been instructed by the board of trustees to purchase a twin Indian motorcycle for the beenfit of these road burners. The cost of the outfit wil be $280.

Miss Bertha Lunn, a niece of Mrs. H. H. Davenport of Glendale avenue, is passing the winter with the Davenport family and with Mr. and Mrs. Lunn, also of Glendale avenue. Miss Lunn is from Greenville, Mich., and is so well pleased with Tropico that she may decide to cast her lot among us.

A meeting of the Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church was held in the church Friday evening. Topics of interest were discussed. It was decided to hold the next meeting of this society at the same place on the last Friday in November, at which time a program will be rendered and a dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock.

A meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Tropico grammar school wil be held in the school house Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. An excellent program has been arranged and will be rendered, and at a late hour refreshments will be served. The ladies are requested to take their needlework, as part of the afternoon will be passed in making fancy articles.

The ways and means committee of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon club has announced its intention of giving a Christmas shop in Knights of Pythias hall on the afternoon and evening of December 14th. A feature of the affair will be the Country Store, while there will also be booths of various kinds, cafeteria lunch stand, etc. During the evening hours dancing will be enjoyed. The receipt of the affair will go toward swelling the club house fund.

The members of the Philathia class of the Presbyterian Sunday school gave a Hallowe'en party at the home of Miss Alta Stone corner of Laurel street and Brand boulevard, Friday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with pumpkins, corn-stalks, and seasonable flowers, and many weirdly and strangely gowned guests moved slowly about the house. Those assisting Miss Stone in entertaining were Miss Eulalia Richardson, Miss Carol Duncan, Miss Gertrude Hatch, Miss Alta Hyslip and Miss Lillian Eaton. About twenty-five guests were present.

There is something doing this week in regard to the stretching of wires and the erecting of poles for the street lighting of this city. Tropico expects about the first of November to be wearing her new mantel of brilliancy and intends, just as soon as this much needed improvement is completed, to "cut some ice" among the suburban cities in this territory. The Tropico section of the Glendale Light and Power company has been taken over by the Pacific Light and Power company for the price of $5200 and extensions to this system are being made at a rapid rate.

The residents of Park avenue have withdrawn their objection to having that street improved and put into a first-class condition. A portion of this street is already improved and those owning property along this improved strip objected to having the street repaired, while the other portion of the street is being improved. Seeing that it is to the best interest of the street and the town in general the residents along this strip, headed by George Friedgen, withdrew their objection to having the repair work done. Frank Peckham, who owns a piece of land west of the San Fernando road and on the south side of Park, has entered an objection to having sidewalks placed along his land, stating that only the residents of Los Angeles living on the west side of the Southern Pacific tracks, would be benefited by the improvement. Mr. Bancroft of the board, stated that while these west side people are residents of Los Angeles, they are practically a part of Los Angeles and should be treated as though they were a part of Los Angeles, as far as this improvement is concerned.

TO HAVE CHEAPER GAS.

The people of this place are rejoicing over the fact that in the near future they are to be given a reduction in the gas rate by the Southern California Gas company. The company has promised that just as soon as the natural gas arrived at this place the rate will be cut from $1.00 per 1000 cubic feet to 60 cents for the same amount. This promise was made to the local board of trustees in an application made by the company for a franchise for the sale of gas in this city. Watch us grow!

PROGRESSIVES MEET.

A meeting of the Progressives of this section was held in Knights of Pythias hall Wednesday evening. The speakers of the evening were Hon. Charles Bell of Pasdena, candidate for Congress, and Mrs. Florence C. Porter of Los Angeles. The affair was well attended, quite a number of ladies being present.

WITH THE TROPICO TRUSTEES.
